

My family and I completely support Indiana's Telephone Privacy law. Our home lives were being constantly interrupted by telemarketers. We would receive up to 20 calls per day where many were just a machine dialing and hanging up on us. Because both my wife and I work early morning hours many of these calls would disturb our sleep. It was then when we turned the ringer off on our phone and were delayed in getting the message that my father had a stroke. Please do not recind any aspect of this law.
